MACDONALD DENIES ANY ATTEMPT TO SHIELD REDS

Answers Opponents In Campaign Speech At Cardiff

A POLITICAL PLOT

Labor Will Brook No Propaganda, He Pledges

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 27.—Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, speaking at Cardiff, said that the election started with the mare's nest of the Workers' Weekly case and seemed likely to finish with the mare's nest of the Great Russian Red Plot. (Laughter)

The assertion that when the Government were refusing an enquiry into the Workers' Weekly case they had information of the ramifications of Communist activity in Great Britian of a far more serious nature than the Commons or the country were allowed to know, was a malicious untruth.

The facts were that the Government was defeated on October 8. This Red Plot letter did not find its way to the Foreign Office till October 10. It was not put into its department until October 14 and was sent to him in Manchester on October 15.

"I received it," continued Mr. MacDonald, "on October 15. I made a minute that the greatest care must be taken in discovering whether it was authentic and if so it must be published immediately. In the meantime, while other investigations were proceeding to discover its authenticity, a draft letter to M. Rakovsky should be prepared so that when and if its authenticity should be established, no time should be lost in protesting to the Soviet Government.

"My minute was received by the department on October 17. A trial draft was sent to me on October 21 at Aberavon for my observations. I was absent in my son's constituency and did not receive it until October 23. I altered the draft on October 24 and sent back the altered form expecting it to be returned to me with proofs of authenticity, but it was published that night". (Cries of 'Shame')

RAPIDITY OF ACTION

"I make no complaints. The Foreign Office and everyone of my colleagues know that I will not tolerate this propaganda. (Cheers)

"On account of my known determination to stand firmly for the agreement and treaty as though they were holy writ when my signature has been attached, they assumed that they were carrying out my wishes in taking immediate steps to publish the whole affair. They honestly believed that the document was authentic and acted upon that belief.

"If they acted precipitately, what is the accusation against us?

"Why do not the newspapers say that we were in too great haste?

"If the Foreign Office had been in either Tory or Liberal hands, that letter would have taken weeks to get through the various sieves. The rapidity of action, the businesslike way of handling the situation and the Government's determination to stand no nonsense is a conspicuous example of the new way of conducting foreign affairs.

"If the Zinovieff letter is a forgery, it shows the amount of 'scoundrelness' with which we are surrounded. My experience makes it impossible for me not to be suspicious. If it is genuine, depend upon it, so long as there is a Labor Government and I am responsible for it, it will handle with firmness and determination every attempt by an outside Power to interfere with our internal affairs."

"WONDERFUL STORIES"

Mr. MacDonald described as lies the "wonderful stories" in the newspapers with regard to the progress of the document through the post office to the Foreign Office. He said it was an eleventh hour attempt to entangle the Government and get the election night over with a cloud of suspicion hanging over the country.

Extensive Changes Taking Place In Shipping Board, Far East Head Announces

R. C. Morton, Director For The Orient, Tells Of Consolidation Within United States Organisation—Trans-Pacific Lines May Have Names Changed

Extensive changes are taking place within the United States Shipping Board tending towards improved efficiency, elimination of overlapping lines and other improvements, according to Mr. R. C. Morton, far east representative of the shipping board with headquarters in Manila, leaving today on the President Madison for the Philippine Islands.

Twelve consolidations have taken place, of which the Tampa and Barber steamship lines consolidation, announced in Shanghai last week, is one. The other consolidations concern services on the Atlantic

It has also been proposed to change the names of the companies operating the trans-Pacific liners, Mr. Morton said yesterday.

NEW NAMES PROPOSED

That division of the Pacific Mail Steamship company which operates the shipping board vessels would be called, instead of the Pacific Mail, the California-Oriental line while the Admiral Oriental line would become the Puget Sound line, Mr. Morton said.

The Admiral line would remain the Admiral line in operating its coastal lines as would the Pacific Mail.

The shipping board, Mr. Morton understands, is seeking publicity looking towards the future. The newly named line could be sold as a unit, name and all, under the proposed change, the name as promoted by the shipping board advertising to be sold as good will. Under present operation the two operating concerns get all the advertising.

CONSOLIDATIONS EFFECTIVE

The 12 consolidations of services have been accomplished.

A statement issued by President Leigh C. Palmer, of the fleet corporation, says that the annual payroll of the Fleet Corporation now shows a reduction of $500,000, as compared with eight months ago.

"The purpose of these consolidations is to put the services on a more business-like footing," says the statement. "Sufficient time has elapsed for a complete turn around of vessels of several of the reorganised services and the anticipated improvements already are apparent. There can be no doubt that similar satisfactory results will be shown by the more recent consolidations when final returns covering their operations come in.

IMPROVEMENTS NOTED

"The improvements already noted are a reduction in the time of ships' voyages with consequent reductions of vessel's expenses, more efficient freight getting organisations and greater flexibility of operations. Most important of all is the climination of the condition that existed under which two overlapping lines competed for business on the same route at Government expense. The completion of this important work lays the foundation for greatly improved services and insures their further conduct on sound business principles.

"The yearly pay roll of the Fleet Corporation alone has already been reduced by over half a million dollars; the stevedoring committees at home and abroad have been making considerable reductions and further rate reduction in stevedoring costs will be realised as the final consolidations are put into effect.

"Particular attention has been paid to economy of fuel consumption. A conspicuous instance is the great reduction in fuel consumption of the Fleet Corporation's steamship line from San Francisco to the Orient."

HERRIOT URGES FRANCE TO BUY MORE IN EAST

Hopes For Economic Recovery Through Development Of Colonial Trade

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 27.—M. Herriot, speaking at a banquet at Lyons, referred to the satisfactory beginning of Franco-German negotiations. He said that he hoped that France would soon be able to recover from the losses she had suffered through being constantly obliged to buy goods in the West by being able to buy in the East.

He then spoke of the development of the French Colonies, especially with regard to silk and cotton, and said that he hoped that the purchase of these goods in foreign countries would shortly be reduced to a minimum.

MORE JAPANESE TROOPS RUSHED INTO TIENTSIN

Additional Forces May Come From Korea Or Home Garrisons

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 28.—Additional troops may be despatched to China by Japan should the impending conflict show signs of endangering the interests of foreign residents in the neighborhood of Tientsin.

The standing garrison on the Liaotung Peninsula has already been depleted by the despatch of troops to Tientsin and Shanhaikwan. If, therefore, additional men are required it will be necessary to bring the garrison up to full strength by troops from Korea or Japan proper.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 28, (Later).—The Cabinet today decided to send two additional companies with a machine gun section to Tientsin from Manchuria.

The Nationalists and Communists gained ten and seven respectively and the Hitler and Ludendorff followers four. The Centrists retained their former number. WU PEI-FU NOW MASSING TROOPS TO BATTLE FENG

10TH DIVISION OF CHEKIANG TROOPS HAS NEW CHIEF

Tseng Tsing-Yen Succeeds Chu Shen-Kwan As Commander

MARTIAL LAW

Precautions Taken To Prevent Possible Coup Here

The local military situation was again affected by the coup d'etat in Peking yesterday when the commander of the Tenth Chekiang division stationed in Kiangwan, Chu Shen-kwan, was ousted and his former lieutenant, Tseng Tsing-yen, was elected as his successor by the under-officers. Tseng assumed his new office yesterday.

Chu was appointed by the Peking Government, following the Presidential Mandate which outlawed Lu Yung-hsiang, who held the command of the tenth division concurrently. Internal dissension was at once evident. But [illegible] agreed [illegible] march his [illegible] under instructions from Nanking, the division was in uproars. Realising his lack of popularity among his own following, he was obliged to retire and yesterday he handed over the command of his forces to Tseng.

A program was held at the Industrial Home in Kiangwan. The new commander emphasised the importance of discipline, which, he said, had been observed strictly ever since he joined the division. But there was always

VISCOUNT KATO OPPOSES HASTE IN RUSS TREATY

Japanese Leader Describes Hopes Of Trade As Fallacy

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 28.—Addressing a party meeting at Gifu yesterday, Viscount Kato, inter alia, dealt with the Government's policy with regard to Russia and China.

Answering advocates of immediate recognition of the Soviet, he described as a fallacy the idea that immediate resumption of relations would mean brisk recovery of trade. He drew attention to Japan's limited pre-war trade with Russia and also the Soviet's present economic system, which, he asserted, was detrimental to trade. Viscount Kato pointed out that ill-considered resumption of relations would entail for Japan the sacrifice of many vital interests.

As regards China, the Premier deplored the continuance of the present struggle. He emphasised the Government's stand of non-interference and denounced those who were loud in their demands for intervention on one side or the other.

PROSPECTS BRIGHTER

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Oct. 27.—The Soviet-Japanese conference was resumed this afternoon at 5 o'clock, when Mr. Yoshizawa, Japanese delegate, according to the latest instructions from the Tokio Government, made an explanation in detail about Japan's proposal for compromise relating to provisions in principle of an agreement anent Japan's rights in North Saghalien.

As Japan's new proposal in this connection is within a short distance of the proposition offered by the Soviet Government, it is expected that M. Karakhan will endeavor to come to a definite agreement with the Japanese delegate.

HURON MARINES ARE LANDED TO GUARD TIENTSIN

Civilians Respond To Call Of Authorities For Volunteers

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, Oct. 27.—Two hundred marines from the U. S. S. Huron landed this afternoon. The British, French and Italians have one gunboat each in the river at present, and the Japanese two destroyers. There has been an excellent response to the appeal of the local authorities for volunteers. The Americans are forming a special unit in conjunction with the regular infantry.

No troops are arriving by the Tientsin-Pukow line, but many trains from Shanhaikuan are proceeding in this direction, stopping a few miles from Tientsin on the road to Peking.

Marshal Wu Pei-fu remains in the Native City. He sent emissaries to the Consulates this morning expressing the hope that he should be allowed to remain here a few days. The view is expressed, however, that this is not possible, as it would constitute a contravention of the Boxer Protocol.

There is no news of developments in Peking.

SINZA FIREMEN KEPT BUSY BY THREE ALARMS

Two Men Severely Burned In Outbreak In Alcohol Godown

Sinza Division of the Settlement Fire Brigade were called upon to attend to three fires Monday night and yesterday. In one of them, two Chinese suffered severe burns, and in another a number of Chinese dwellings were badly damaged.

The first alarm came at 6:30 o'clock Monday night from two Chinese dwellings at Nos. B251-2 off Sinza Road, used as godowns by a firm of exporters. Two men were filling tins with spirits of wine, of which there was a large quantity in the godown, when an oil lamp was overturned, igniting some of the spirit. The men were unable to get clear of the sudden flash and both sustained severe burns. Despite their injuries, however, they got buckets of water and succeeded in extinguishing the outbreak before the flames had reached the bulk of the spirit, thereby preventing what would have been a very serious outbreak. One of the men was taken to Shantung Road Hospital, suffering from severe burns on the legs, feet and arms. His condition is serious.

Sinza was turned out again at 8:05 a.m. yesterday to a dwelling off North Chengtu Road, where some bedding had been set alight by a child playing with matches. The inmates had extinguished the flames by the time the division arrived. The damage was trivial.

At 12:56 p.m. yesterday, the report was received that flames had broken out in a block of dwelling houses off Taku Road. When Sinza division arrived, the fire had gotten a good hold, and the firemen found the house at No. G451 enveloped in flames, while the upper portions of the two houses adjoining on the west side were also blazing. The roof of No. G451 had partly collapsed, and the whole of the congested block of poorly constructed dwellings was threatened.

A section of Central Division was sent to the assistance of the Sinza Division, and the combined forces, by prompt action, succeeded in checking the spread of the outbreak. With the exception of slight damage to the roof and ceiling of No. 454, damage was confined to the three houses already mentioned. No. 451 was practically burned out, and the other two badly damaged. The cause of the fire is unknown.

OUTLOOK FOR SUCCESS OF COUP D'ETAT LESS BRIGHT

Christian General Is Worried Over Chihli Move

CLASH IS NEAR

Fengtien Forces At Front Come To Terms, Belief

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Oct. 27.—Perceiving that Marshal Wu Pei-fu has returned to Tientsin, General Feng Yu-hsiang appears to be greatly confused for he is reported to have in haste established his position at a point some 10 miles to the south of Peking against the probable attack by Marshal Wu's troops.

General Feng has already concentrated approximately fifteen thousand troops with the exception of those which are attached to his general headquarters in the sector above mentioned and is now closely watching the attitude of General Cheng Shih-chi, Tuli of Shantung Province, who, it is said, has an understanding with General Feng.

SEE FENGTIEN TRUCE

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Oct. 27.—It is generally inferred here that the reason why Marshal Wu Pei-fu could so easily send back his troops to Tientsin from the fighting fronts is due to the fact that he has come to terms with the Fengtien forces at the fronts.

Although General Feng's faction at first made light of Marshal Wu's return to Tientsin from the battlefield, declaring that the commander of the defeated troops could do nothing, the situation has since gradually come to assume an aspect unfavorable to that faction. Moreover, as various powers having now become intermixed and complicated, it seems improbable that General Feng will be able to carry out his original scheme, and the prospect of the situation in the North is proving darker than ever.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Oct. 27.—It is learned that part of the troops under the command of General Feng Yu-hsiang and General Hu Ching-i will be completely concentrated in the district of Langfang by noon today and that upon the completion of the said troops' concentration there, they will make an advance and launch an attack upon Marshal Wu Pei-fu's troops.

General Sun Yo's forces today left here for Paotingfu with the intent, it is understood, of defeating President Tsao Kun's troops there and then invading Honan Province, which is Marshal Wu's base of operations.

SHANTUNG NEUTRAL

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Oct. 27.—General Cheng Shih-chi, Tuli of Shantung, is alleged to have clarified his attitude by announcing that he will not refuse to pledge allegiance to Marshal Tuan Chi-jui but that until the Marshal actually comes out of his retirement and takes up the post as Generalissimo of the "National Army," he (General Cheng) will devote his effort to live up to his avowed policy of defending the boundary and of protecting the inhabitants in his province.

(Dah Tong News Bureau)

Tientsin, Oct. 28.—Wu Pei-fu has withdrawn all his forces from Chinwangtao, which is garrisoned by the landing cadets of Admiral Wen Shu-teh's navy. Wu has moved his men to Tientsin.

Hu Ching-yi has transferred his troops to Tungchow by land and is now preparing himself for an attack on Tientsin. He is being joined by the Shensi forces under Chang Yen-kung.

Following the wishes of the people, Shantung and Shansi will refrain from participating in the struggle between Wu Pei-fu an Feng Yu-hsiang.

Upon arriving in Tientsin, Wu Pei-fu has ordered Yung Yi-tah to watch the movements of Wu Ching-lien, ex-Speaker of the House.

(Dah Tong News Bureau)

Mukden, Oct. 28.—Chang Tso-lin has ordered the first army under Chang Hsueh-liang and the second army under Li Ching-lin to pursue the enemy by way of Shihmensai and Chifeng and to meet in Luanchow.

In a telegram to Peking, Governor Wang Yung-kiang of Fengtien declines to serve in the cabinet, since he is required to look after the rehabilitation of Manchuria, his home, he said.

CHIHLI RETREATING
(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, October 27.—In the Shanhaikwan sector, skirmishes have taken place since yesterday. Last night, the Chihli forces in the district to the south of Shihmensai retreated to a point northwest of Tawangchuang.

TO LAUNCH ATTACK
(Eastern News Agency)

Mukden, October 27.—The General Headquarters says that the Fengtien forces in the Shanhaikwan sector have decided to launch a general attack upon the Chihli forces from today with a view to driving the latter in the direction of Tientsin.

SHIPS AT CHINWANGTAO
(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, October 27.—The Chihli troops, which have proceeded westward from Chinwangtao, are the greater part of the 3rd Division and a portion of the 24th. Division, the 13th Mixed Brigade and the 2nd Shensi Division. There are at the present time in Chinwangtao 21 transport vessels and 5 men-of-war, belonging to the Chihli troops.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, Oct. 28.—Marshal Wu Pei-fu yesterday afternoon went by rail to Yangtsun for the purpose of inspecting troops at the front.

It is reported that several train-loads of Shantung troops which started for the North were diverted at Yenchowfu and proceeded to Lintsingchow.

Marshal Wu Pei-fu is reported to be sending trains by the Pukow-Tientsin line to Hsuchowfu in order to obtain reinforcements from Honan.

Marshal Wu Pei-fu's troops are stated to number at the present time 15,000.

The Shanhaikwan front is quiet. Apparently there is a complete lull in military operations.

An Allied military train left Tientsin for Peking yesterday morning at 6 o'clock, and arrived at 6 o'clock in the evening.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Mukden, Oct. 28.—Mr. Sun Fo has left for Canton. It is understood that he has reached a complete agreement with Marshal Chang Tso-lin.

According to a report received from Adjutant General Yang, the Fengtien Second Army is advancing on Lanchow from Lengkow. Another army is advancing on Shimentkai.

Shensi Commander Is Opposing Feng

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hankow, Oct. 27.—General Hu Chang-yi, commander of the 1st Shensi Division, according to local reports, does not appear to be in co-operation with General Feng Yu-hsiang.

The special edition of a vernacular paper published this afternoon states that General Wu Chuen-sheng and General Li Ching-lin have returned to Mukden and overthrown Marshal Chang Tso-lin who, the report asserts, has taken refuge at the Japanese Consulate.

MacDonald Denies Report Of Attempt To Shield Reds

"I am the most innocent man of the lot of you," continued the Premier. "I was out of London and had to get information, which is still coming in, because I am going to probe this thing to the roots. My first job when I return to London will be to discover how this thing originated and who is behind it and you will get the whole story."

Mr. MacDonald said he wanted to know how a certain London newspaper, which prided itself on having forced the Government's hands, came to have a copy of the letter and how the Conservative Headquarters, which for days had been talking of springing a mine under the Government's feet, became possessed of the letter.

"As far as I know," he went on, "the letter may have originated anywhere. How can I, a simple, honest-minded person, avoid the suspicion that the whole thing is a political plot—another Gunpowder Plot." (Laughter).

"The matter is in no wise finished," he concluded, "and until it is finished the best thing is to leave it with the Government". (Cheers).

CONSERVATIVE REPLY
(Reuter's Service)

London, October 27.—With reference to Mr. MacDonald's speech at Cardiff, the Conservative Headquarters has promptly issued a statement saying that it only learned of the existence of the Zinovieff letter when the Foreign Office published it.

NOT SATISFIED YET
(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 28.—The most serious allegation of the Premier's critics regarding Russia was that the Premier had Zinovieff's letter several weeks' ago, and deliberately withheld publication for party purposes. The Premier's speech has disarmed criticism in regard to this, but otherwise in no way satisfied the opposition press, which caustically refers to the unusual spectacle of a minister attacking officials of his own department, who are not privileged to reply.

For the present everybody is content to relegate the authenticity of the Zinovieff letter itself to the background, but the utmost party capital is being made out of Mr. Macdonald's Russian policy.

The Conservatives particularly regard the whole episode as an electoral asset with which to spur apathetic voters to the poll. The Liberals, however, though dissatisfied with the reply, warn supporters not to pay undue attention to the Russian issue rather than to concentrate on the defeat of the Conservatives' protectionist aims.

Insurance rates at Lloyds in the past few days veered in favor of a Conservative victory. The odds yesterday were approximately 7 to 2 on a clear Conservative majority, and 19 to 1 against a Labor majority but Mr. Macdonald's final appeal to the nation says "at the end of the hardest fight I have ever known, the signs of Labor victories are unmistakable."

LLOYD GEORGE SPEAKS
(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 27.—Mr. Lloyd George, in a speech at Camberwell in support of the Liberal candidate, Dr. MacNamara, said that the Moscow mystery had cast a very sinister light on the Government's refusal of an inquiry into the Campbell case.

The Foreign Office, of which Mr. Ramsay MacDonald was the head said that the Zinovieff document was genuine but all Mr. MacDonald's Ministers said that it was a forgery. He did not know why they said that before they made enquiries. It looked to him as though the document had been withheld from the Cabinet Ministers.

He would have accepted the Soviet denial but for the fact that when he was Prime Minister the Soviet had denied a similar transaction when he had had positive proof of it; namely, M. Kameneff had denied that he was propagating a revolution in England at the moment when he (Mr. Lloyd George) had his telegram to Moscow stating that he had disposed of the Russian jewels and was giving the Daily Herald £75,000. Therefore he could not accept Moscow's denial as he would have accepted the denial of any other country.

HENDERSON'S DENIAL
(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 27.—With reference to the statements that the Zinovieff letter was known to Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and Mr. Henderson nearly three weeks prior to its publication, Mr. Henderson today declares that no such document was received by the Home Office of Scotland Yard or by himself personally from any quarter. His first information of the existence of the document was the columns of a newspaper on Oct. 25.

Zimbalist

Among the world's great violinists the position of Efrem Zimbalist is unique. Wonderful technical mastery of his instrument he possesses, together with a power of expression little short of marvelous. Exhibitions of pure technique he can give in a manner equalled by few, but these are not his forte, and it is in works of real feeling, but calling at the same time for high technical ability, that Zimbalist is at his best, exercising his great art with the naturalness and ease characteristic of him, and bringing out the wonderful beauty of the violin in the fullest measure, never with the coldness of the mere technician and never with the touch of the maudlin which comes from overstressed feeling.

Though Lalo's beautiful "Symphonie Espagnole" appeared as the most ambitious number on the program at Zimbalist's second concert here, at the Town Hall last night, it is difficult to give any one part of the program pre-eminence, so well-chosen and so splendidly interpreted were the numbers given by this great artist. One of the most exquisite, however, was Schubert's immortal "Moment Musical" with its wonderful lightness and gaiety of spirit. An attempt to give this composition of pure joyousness and light-heartedness proper expression has been made in various ways, but even with the added beauty of the terpsichorean art it is doubtful if any more perfect expression could be given than Zimbalist's last night. The artist, in response to continued applause, gave an encore of this.

It is impossible here to do justice to all the beautiful works which found expression last night, but Tchaikovsky's "Andante Cantabile" with its deep and wonderful melody working down into the heart and bringing tears by its pure beauty, was rendered as we have seldom heard it rendered. Plunging into the depths of human emotions, and leaving us silent and awed before its marvelous sweep and power, this composition is one of the greatest in all music, and when it is said that Zimbalist gave it fitting expression little more can be said of this great musician.

The concluding number on the program was Sarasate's splendid "Zigeunerweisen," but the audience responded with round after round of applause to the artist's excellent rendering of this, until an encore was given. Sarasate's "Introduction and Tarantelle." This beautiful number, with its slow introduction and its capricious change to the dance form, was excellently given and continued applause brought forth two more encores, "Salut d'Amour" and a composition by the artist himself.

It was a wonderful experience to hear this great virtuoso again, and it is regrettable that tomorrow night's concert will be the last opportunity to hear him in Shanghai, for a time at any rate.

one or two black sheep among the herd and he was determined not to show any leniency if the law-breaker was caught.

It is understood that the division is in need of winter clothing and daily ration and a representative was sent to the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce to seek assistance. The unit would require about $36,000 for immediate necessity and is now seeking a loan for that amount.

The arrival of 700 irregular troops from Chapei was the cause of the sudden proclamation of martial law in Kiangwan yesterday. The soldiers under the command of one Lung Hsu-chu was formerly stationed at the Kashing Guild in Chapei and were re-enlisted, through negotiations conducted by the Garrison Commissioner of Shanghai, to serve as the body-guards of the First Provincial Division of Kiangsu and ordered to duty at Woosung. But when the forces arrived in Kiangwan, they preferred to remain there instead. As a precautionary measure, the tenth division proclaimed martial law.

More horrors of war were brought home yesterday from Nanziang, as a result of the arrival there of three companies of artillery from Kating, according to a Red Cross report. Houses along the railway were looted and four women were known to have been assaulted by soldiers.

Mr. George Hsu Chien, former Minister of Justice of the Southern Government and a strong advocate for provincial autonomy, sailed for Tientsin yesterday upon the invitation of General Feng Yu-hsiang.

General Chang Yung-ming, in command of the Hupeh forces which first entered Shanghai upon the flight of Lu Yung-hsiang, is expected to leave here today under instructions from both Wu Pei-fu and Hsian Yao-nan. He and his 6,000 troops have been occupying the Lunghua Arsenal and other important public places of the Shanghai city since their arrival.

General Chang Yung-ming has appointed Yih Hung-tsi and Chang Chung-ping as directors of the Nantao Telephone Service. But the former director, Koo Ting-she, has refused to hand over the records on the ground that his office being a bureau under the control of the Ministry of Communications, could not tolerate any military interference. He would not surrender the property to any one except to appointees of the ministry, and has warned the subscribers not to pay their subscriptions to the new appointees. On the other hand, Yih and Chang insist that the returns be paid to them, and have issued notices to the public to this effect.

In the United States Court for China, yesterday morning, before Judge Milton D. Purdy, the case was mentioned in which the Hung Tai Hong sued Messrs. Gaston, Williams & Wigmore, and the Asia Banking Corporation to recover the sum of Tls. 5,336.41 for 133 bags of flake glue alleged by the plaintiff to have been wrongfully converted by the defendants. The attorney for the plaintiff said that in July, 1920 the first defendants had a consignment of 20 tons of flake glue, which they had pledged with the Asia Banking Corporation against an indebtedness to that institution. Subsequently they sold about five tons—113 bags—to the plaintiffs who tendered a check in payment, the check being attached to a delivery order signed on behalf of Messrs. Gaston, Williams & Wigmore, and sent to the bank for endorsement, which was done. The plaintiffs did not immediately take delivery, and when they went to the godown six months afterwards to get their glue, they found it had disappeared, and on inquiry found it had been sold by the bank who thus had received the money twice over for these particular goods. The case was adjourned a fortnight.

Mr. S. R. Anderson of the Moore Memorial Church of Shanghai has made an appeal for the use of a motor house-boat to be used in investigating the needs of the inhabitants of inland towns located on the canals in the vicinity of Shanghai which have been burned and looted in connection with the recent fighting in this part of China. Mr. Anderson's letter to THE CHINA PRESS follows. Formerly flourishing towns in the war zone have been bombarded, looted and burned. Hundreds are homeless, and without food or covering. Christian forces of Shanghai are working hard at relief work. They have contributed some $10,000.00 to buy rice and covers for those who cannot help themselves. On a trip to Liuho yesterday some 100 old men and women and children, and a few able-bodied were found wandering among the charred ruins of that once flourishing city; relief has been sent. The Committee on Investigation must have a motor house boat at once, as most of the towns in distress are inaccessible otherwise. Rumors of 80 people in one town and 40 in another with nothing to eat come in, and the Committee must go at once for investigation and relief. The undersigned is authorised to make this appeal through the press for a motor boat for a few days for this urgent relief. If your boat is free, offer it; life is still worth saving. Please reply at once to Mr. S. R. Anderson. Moore Memorial Church, 4 Thibet Road.

VANCOUVER SEES RIOT AT FIGHTS; POLICE GET BUSY

Crowd Disagrees With Decision Of Referee; Officers On The Job

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 27.—A miniature riot was staged here last night as the sequel to the ten-round bout between Vic Foley, Vancouver bantamweight, and Bud Ridley, of Seattle, Wash. It was an excellent fight, both men putting up a good battle, and at the conclusion of the bout the referee, Ted Whitman, gave a draw decision.

The crowd, which was strongly in favor of the local fighter, Foley, let out a roar of dissatisfaction at the decision, and demanded that the referee retract it. Many of the local enthusiasts declared that Foley had won at least five of the ten rounds, the others being even. For a few minutes there was turmoil, the whole crowd being on their feet roaring their discontent. Some threatened the referee, and there were howls to "Wreck the place."

The police, however, were on the job, and did not hesitate to enforce the law. Some climbed into the ring, and quieted the crowd somewhat. They escorted the referee from the ring and through the crowd, which was soon calmed down by the determined officers of the law.

Rent Receipts Are Stolen By Gang Of Four In Raid On Chinese House

Two more armed robberies, in one of which currency totalling $5,500 was stolen, appear on the police reports for yesterday.

Four men, three of whom were armed with short black pistols, came to 494 Kwangse Road, the home of a Chinese property-owner, Monday night, just as an accountant and collector were checking over the monthly rent receipts, totalling $5,500 Although a police watchman and a private watchman were on guard outside, they were taken completely by surprise, and were forced into a hut in the rear of the compound, where one of the robbers stood guard over them. His three companions rushed into the room occupied by the accountant and collector, and seizing the money, ran out. All four escaped without firing a shot.

At about the same time, a robbery was taking place at 733 East Yuhang Road. The Chinese occupant heard a knock at the door. On answering, and inquiring who his caller was, he was told that a cousin of his had sent the man there. He opened the door, and three men, one of whom was armed with a revolver, entered. They demanded a loan and forced the occupant of the house to open his safe. When they found nothing of value in the safe, they threatened to kill their victim unless he revealed the hiding place of his money. He finally consented and unlocked a drawer from which they took $57 in notes and silver and escaped.

Treat Is Offered To Movie Fans In Carlton Program

Shanghai movie fans who attended last night's performance of "Scaramouche" at the Carlton Theater were treated to a series of surprises as a prelude to the best movie that has been seen here for some time. Following a B.A.T. travel picture showing the porcelain industry in Kiukiang, the velvet curtain descended for an instant's interval and then rose upon the jazz orchestra of the Carlton Cafe who immediately broke into one of their lively pieces, tuned up to the snappiest allegretto.

After this there was a sudden darkening of the stage and the parted curtains next revealed a troupe of Hawaiian musicians against a backdrop of tropical scenery. After a tuneful Hawaiian melody played on the native instruments, the stage was occupied by Miss Refa Miller, in a quaint and lovely 17th century costume, who sang "Just an Old Love Song," Miss Miller's lovely voice has never been heard to better advantage in Shanghai than last night.

To top off this musical prelude to the big picture, there was another jazz tune, so lively that the musicians themselves had difficulty in keeping their seats. At that, Pete Harmon's educated feet performed terpsichorean antics of their own that were limited only by the necessity for his keeping his place while he tootled his saxaphone.

"Scaramouche," the Rex-Ingram-Metro production taken from the romantic novel of Rafael Sabatini, needs but little introduction to a Shanghai public already familiar with the book. Suffice to say that it is a dramatic representation of historic events leading up to the French revolution. The first days of the revolution in Paris were depicted in all their horror, but with the greatest accuracy of historic detail. The photography was excellent; the types, all of them apparently handpicked, perfect, and the characters superb in their several parts.

"Scaramouche" is an example of what the movies can do if they try and the management of the Carlton is to be congratulated on having secured this splendid picture and for having shown it here in a setting that is reminiscent of the way pictures are shown at home—with a good musical introduction.

The packed house last night likewise attested to the real hunger Shanghai moviegoers have for good pictures.

Many Arrested By Dublin Police For Queenstown Attack

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 28.—Many arrests were made in Dublin this morning following detective raids in search of men wanted in connection with the shooting of British soldiers at Queenstown on March 22, when four men dressed as Free State officers opened fire from machine guns on a party of about fifty people mostly British soldiers who had just landed from a military launch, killing one soldier and wounding seventeen.

Pet Theory About Far East Goes Aglimmering

Another pet theory went aglimmering yesterday.

Max Malini, magician, declared that the far eastern wonder-worker—the dark-skinned man who charms snakes and makes mango trees grow where cannon balls stood before—is not to be compared to the magician of the United States or Great Britain.

"The far east magicians—Chinese, East India—have no technique, they show no true art," Malini says. "They started this business of magic but they have failed to develop."

"They develop no new tricks, either, although the new trick in magic is something very hard to inaugurate.

"I can beat practically every far eastern magician at his own tricks—and not be forced to retire for a change of costume as the east magicians do.

"They have always worked with the less intelligent classes of people—their tricks, therefore, are crude compared to tricks of Americans, British and other foreigners."

Manni is on his sixth trip around the world. In that time he has performed before practically every ruler in whose country he visited. He has made the coin disappear before the late Presidents Roosevelt, Harding and McKinley. He showed his wares to Yuan Shih-kai of China. Kings Edward VII and George V have watched him operate. The Kings of Siam and Greece have both remarked "Ah" when a gold piece was found in an egg.

Malini is here for six weeks after which he will visit Peking and Tientsin, make a short visit to Japan and then go to San Francisco where he will again visit with his 11 year old son, Ozear, born in Manila, who is, according to Malini, destined to be the greatest magician in the world—"greater than his daddy," says Malini.

Ozear has been in training since he was able to move a tiny fist, Malini declares. His first "stunt" was to hide his dad's collar button—he swallowed it by the way, but "how cute and what a wonderful future," said the elder Malini.

Malini has come from Manila and Hongkong where he performed for club audiences for more than two months.

This is his fourth visit here in 8 years.

CANTON CALMER AFTER COUP OF FENG YU-HSIANG

Want Customs Surplus To Aid In Relief Work For Volunteers

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, October 26.—As regards relief measures after the dissolution of the Merchants Volunteers, the Canton Government, for some time past, has been holding conferences with representatives of merchants here.

In connection with the substance of these conferences, Mr. Hu Han-min, Civil Governor of Kuangtung, states that the Government is expected to request the Diplomatic Body in Peking to supply Canton with the Customs surplus as relief-funds.

As for the citizens' self-protection organ, it is learned on good authority that the government intends to let the citizens organise a special-service police force with the object of maintaining peace and order in the city and thus to effect the unification of financial affairs after consultation with all the military leaders.

The report that the Canton Government has decided to put in force the Communism is untrue, says Mr. Hu Han-min.

The projected attack by General Chen Chiung-ming's troops upon Dr. Sun's troops appears to have been delayed to discord between General Chen Chiung-ming, General Lin Hu, and General Yeh Chu as well as to the sudden change in the situation in the North. At any rate, the situation in Canton, serious as it has been for some time past, is gradually assuming a calm aspect.

Soviet And Japan To Reopen Parley

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Oct. 26.—The Eastern News Agency learns that the Soviet-Japanese conference, which for sometime past has been at a deadlock will be reopened tomorrow afternoon and this is, it is believed, due to the arrival of instructions from the Tokio Government regarding the question of Saghalien rights.

'The Covered Wagon' Film Masterpiece, To Be Shown Here

"The Covered Wagon," the motion picture production which has registered such a tremendous success in America and Europe during recent months, will shortly be seen in Shanghai, according to announcement by the Peacock Motion Corporation offices here. The film, a Paramount effort, is declared to be the "biggest" endeavor in American picture production since the "Birth of a Nation," and to eclipse even that film in historic scope, action and general handling.

"The Covered Wagon" is the film version of Emerson Hough's novel of the same name—a record of the great American pioneering ventures of '49, when, in the face of Indian opposition and great natural hardships, the colonisation of the American Northwest was assured. The picture was made along the route of the old "Oregon Trail" and involved months of effort and the employment of thousands of actors.

When the picture was first shown at the Criterion Theater in New York—where it remained for more than a year—Quinn Martin, critic for the "New York World," greeted it as follows:

"In spite of the fact that the Governors of thirty-three states while in convention a few weeks ago saw 'The Covered Wagon' and were unanimous in pronouncing it good—it is good. We take great pleasure in throwing back our head on this occasion and uttering a piercing 'Bravo!' in recognition of the arrival from one of our own cinema camps of a picture play which is as good as gold with no reservations to tack upon it. 'The Covered Wagon' is a stirring romantic document of the struggles of our then adolescent republic and we feel no hesitancy in adding that it takes its place as a joint work of historic and artistic importance far in the lead of anything that has ever been filmed.

"This sounds as if we had been carried away in our enthusiasm over a motion picture. That is no dream. We have been."

Pingliang Has Many Modern Improvements

(China Press Correspondence)

Kuyuan, Kansu, Oct. 10.—I have just returned from Pingliang, the headquarters of the Defense Commissioner for Eastern Kansu. Since my last trip there several noticeable improvements were very conspicuous. First, General Chang has installed a telephone service for all his important officials and camps. His idea is to extend this service for the public next year, if the demand requires it. Second, the levelling of the main streets, with deep gutters on either side for drainage. The roads are made just a little higher in the middle so the water can run off Some of the streets, especially the one on which his new foreign three-story brick residence is located, have hundreds of trees planted on them, improving their looks considerably.

His new home has an American force pump for his well, and is worked by an American windmill. His foreign house is fitted out like an American home, most of the articles having been bought at Montgomery Ward in Chicago. Every property owner had to repair in front of his own door, so little foot bridges, or rather culverts, have been made of stone and brick. Then oil lamps have been placed every few rods on all streets. Next year it is said that he wants electric lights for the city.

A match factory is also being erected now by the general, and weaving establishments. A large Dodge Sedan, seven passenger, arrived for the same gentleman, while your correspondent was there. A very good looking car, indeed. It had come from the railhead on its own power. How it made those awful roads is a mystery to us! But now he has given orders to make an auto road from Pingliang to Changwuhsien in Shensi. Each "ing" of his soldiers has 30 li to do, and twenty days in which to complete it. When the Chinese officials want something done, then it can be done. It is planned to have this motor road go as far as Lanchow, and most likely go via this city.

All the soldiers under this Defense Commissioner can be seen knitting woolen socks. On enquiry we found out that these socks are to be presented to Wu Pei-fu for his northern winter campaign! It is quite amusing to see the soldiers walking the streets knitting socks! We have also gotten several more "ing" here, their purpose being to ward off the brigands who are prowling around the northern part of Shensi, but who might break through the border and come into this province. Provisions of all kinds are now being brought into the city here for the soldiers and their animals, at the express order of General Chang. What all the preparation is for, we cannot exactly say, but something is evidently brewing. Trust Kansu shall be spared from wanton strife.

CHINESE HIDE IN PACKING CASES ON TRIP TO NEW YORK

One Dead, Six Others Nearly Suffocated On Voyage To America

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, Oct. 26.—Three local Chinese have been arrested on a charge of attempting to smuggle their countrymen into the United States, following the discovery of seven Chinese in packing-cases aboard a steamer arriving after thirty days' voyage from Hongkong. It is stated that two or three men were placed in each packing-case, and were promised food aboard the steamer and work when they reached New York. One has since died; the others have been sent to Hospital in a precarious condition owing to the lack of food, semi-suffocation and terrible buffeting.

The police did not disclose the name of the steamer.

Nanking Preparing For Chi's Return

(Eastern News Agency)

Nanking, Oct. 26.—It is expected that Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan will return here in a day or two, and as a consequence, official circles here are extremely busy making preparations for their welcome to Marshal Chi.

Any time wife sits at the window listening for the rattle of the taxicab, and hearing, instead, the rattle of the milk cans, she visualizes hubby enmeshed in the silken coils of a lady exactly like the Vampire in "A Fool There Was," the great picture now playing at the Isis Theatre.

Newly Appointed French Minister To Peking Lauded

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 25.—Le Petit Parisien today warmly eulogises Count de Martel, the new French Minister to Peking. The paper says that it will be remembered that he was at one time on the staff of the Legation in Peking, where he understood and appreciated Chinese art as well as the customs of the people. It concludes by saying that Count de Martel, without neglecting the consideration of the actual facts of present conditions in modern China, will absorb further deep impressions of the most ancient civilisation in the world.

Siberian Consular Service Reorganised

Peking, Oct. 21.—The official report of the Cabinet meeting this morning says it was decided that a consulate should be established at Kiakta, that the Consulate-General at Chita should be reduced to a consulate, and the consulate at Habarovsk should be raised to a Consulate-General. The meeting approved the revised regulations to govern the Commission of Administrative Research and resolved to appoint Mr. Chao Han-lun as Chairman of the Commission.

ANOTHER LEVY OF $70,000 IS MADE ON WUSIH

(China Press Correspondence)

Wusih, Ku., October 24.—Two or three mixed brigades of Honan and Shantung soldiers passed through Wusih yesterday, bound in the direction of Nanking. These troops were carried by eight long trains on the Shanghai-Nanking Railway and amounted in all to about 8,000 men.

The leading gentry of Wusih have tried to extract a promise from General Ch'i that he will send his troops back to their bases by railway and not by boats, so that it will be more difficult to stop off at Wusih and loot the city en route. Your correspondent does not know whether this promise was obtained or not, but if so, it has not been kept entirely, because a boat train of soldiers came through two nights ago and two of the boats cut loose from the train and caused some anxiety here for some time.

Reports from refugees, who have come here from the war area, all agree that the soldiers have cleaned the houses and shops of everything in that area. These reports, taken in conjunction with the reports of people arriving in Shanghai as reported in THE CHINA PRESS, seem to show that the country from Quinsan on the west to Shanghai on the east and from the River on the north to Sungkiang on the south has been entirely and thoroughly looted. This is interesting in view of the claims of both combatants that they were going to war for the sake of the Chinese people.

Another levy of money is being made on Wusih in the shape of the sale of $70,000 worth of some sort of promissory interest bearing paper which the tuchun has sent here to be disposed of.

An Economical Motor Car

SOME of the records made by Jewett drivers in the small amount of petrol and oil used are truly astounding.

However, it is not only economical on petrol and oil, but also on spares and repair charges, as it is infrequent that one needs to concern oneself in regard to repairs. The Jewett engineers have so constructed the Jewett motor car as to need little or no concern outside of the ordinary care that one gives a running machine. This is an advantage that the Jewett has over other cars in its class.

Jewett drivers are enthusiastic. They get years of service from the Jewett. This is what the firm of Jewett claims for their motor car and what 110,000 drivers know.

TWO SHANTUNG COUNTIES ARE BADLY FLOODED

150,000 People Affected By Breaking Of Grand Canal Dyke

So much has been heard about the floods in Chihli and Hunan that the situation in other provinces which have also been affected by the unprecedented rainfall is apt to be overlooked. For instance, according to the China International Famine Relief Commission, a break in the Grand Canal dyke flooded the two North Western counties of Shantung to such an extent that very serious suffering will result this coming winter.

The commission has carried out a comprehensive investigation of this section with the co-operation of the American Board Mission at Tehchow and the reports are now being tabulated. A summary of the informations shows that in En Hsien 130 villages are affected whose population is something over 100,000 persons. Of these 90,000 are on the verge of starvation. In Wu Ch'eng Hsien nearly 200 villages were flooded but the population affected is some what smaller, there being only 50,000. Of these 30,000 are facing starvation.

It is interesting to note the great increase in food prices which has already taken place. In En Hsien kaoliang and corn have risen 25 percent in the last three months, while in Wu Ch'eng Hsien kaoliang and wheat have increased 19 percent in price.

College Girls Of Today Idealistic, Women Are Told

American Association Of University Women Hold Monthly Dinner

The present generation of college women, and particularly the college girls of 1924, despite their bobbed hair, smoking and short skirts, are really idealistic and deep-thinking women, according to Miss Jean Lyon, who has recently returned to Shanghai from Wellesley, and who gave a talk last evening at the monthly meeting and dinner of the American Association of University Women.

Nearly 100 members and their friends attended the dinner which was held at the American Women's Club rooms. Mrs. James Epson and Mrs. N. F. Allman were in charge of the seating and dinner. During the dinner, the guests progressed from one table to another between courses, thereby giving all an opportunity to become acquainted with one another.

The program consisted of songs, speeches and readings. In addition to the talk by Miss Lyon, which had for its subject "Movie Chapters of 1924," Miss Jane Shaw gave a reading, and Miss Ruth Benedict talked on "Disadvantages of a College Education." Mrs. H. C. Mei, in an impromptu address, spoke of her experiences in America, and Miss Grace Yang told of her trip to the meeting of the International Federation of University Women in Christiana, Norway.

Mrs. R. Vanderburgh and Miss Bernice Austin were in charge of the musical features of the program.

Mrs. Carleton Lacy presided over the dinner.

The next meeting of the association will be held in November.

German Shipping Lines Admitted To Brazil Conference

(Reuter's Service)

Amsterdam, Oct. 27.—With reference to recent friction between the Dutch and German navigation companies engaged in the South American trade with regard to the mutual utilisation of harbors, the Handelsblad learns that an arrangement has been reached by which the German lines undertake to limit themselves to eighteen trips annually from Brazil to Rotterdam and the Dutch lines engage to make a like number between Brazil and Hamburg. The agreement, which will operate till December 31, 1925, is important because the German companies agree to become members of the homeward Brazil Conference on which British, French and Dutch companies are represented.

RELIEF WORK IS TAKEN OVER BY CHINESE BODIES

Red Cross To Assume Duties Undertaken By Americans At Nanking

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanking, Oct. 25.—The Committee for Civilian Relief, originally functioning under the auspices of the American Red Cross, has now been recognised by the Central Committee of the Chinese Red Cross and is working under the name of the latter organisation.

It probably would be well to give a word of explanation as to the reason why it was decided originally to work under the American Red Cross. At the time when Civil Governor Han Gwoa Djuin requested the Nanking churches to launch work for the civilians in the area immediately behind the lines, it was felt by all interested that the management of the Chinese Red Cross Chapter in Nanking was not such that would make it advisable to link up with them. Accordingly, the Nanking Chapter of the American Red Cross sanctioned the use of their name and work was started.

In the beginning, workers were drawn from Nanking only, but as the work developed, and seemed to be meeting the situation, units from other cities were recruited. In the meantime, word was received that the American Red Cross had decided to withdraw from all foreign countries, which naturally meant the discontinuance of that name in this work. Dr. Frank Wilmot, of the University Hospital in Nanking, went to Shanghai and succeeded in obtaining recognisation of the work by the Central Committee of the Chinese Red Cross. Everybody feels that the present connection is the logical one, but, in the beginning, it was imperative that work be started at once and, at that time, there did not seem to be any reason why the name of the American Red Cross should not be used.

At the present time the unit is limited to 20 workers, under the agreement with the Chinese Red Cross, and workers are drawn from Kiangyin, Soochow, Wusih, Changchow, Chinkiang and Nanking. The members of the unit are stationed at five centers and the work which they are attempting is five-fold: first, rescue of women and children from danger points at the front; second, temporary centers for the care of refugees; third, food and clothing for those in distress; fourth, medical aid for wounded and sick civilians; and fifth, social and religious work among the refugees. Approximately 4000 people have been evacuated from the fighting and looted zones.

Throughout all the period in which the committee has been working and during the time when plans for reconstruction in the devastated area were under consideration, the fullest financial aid of the Civil Governor has been extended. Over $2500 has been placed at the disposal of the committee either for expenses involved in the work or for the purchase of clothes and bedding for those who have lost all that they possessed. Without this sympathetic co-operation, it would have been impossible to carry on the work along its present lines. All of the money that has been used has come from Chinese sources.

AMERICAN EXPERT TALKS ON TRADE WITH THE SOVIET

Warning Is Addressed To Intending Traders By Returned Official

New York, Sept. 24.—A report to the Department of Commerce by L. J. Lewery, European regional expert, published by the department, warns intending purchasers from Russia or sellers to Russia that they can trade only with Soviet institutions. His report states that the "Soviet Government is able, by a single decree, to remove the whole of Russia's trade from one State to another. This actually happened following the development of the Russo-German conflict arising out of the German police raid on the premises of the Soviet trade delegation in Berlin, when Russian business was diverted to Holland's commerce as to alter the figures of her trade balance. The same thing happened after the withdrawal of the Russian trade delegation from Paris, which abruptly transferred all outstanding business to England because of a decision of the French Supreme Court in favor of a Russian-Armenian firm of silk manufacturer whose stocks had been nationalised by the Soviet authorities and subsequently sold in France.

HOW TRADE IS REGULATED

"The flow of Soviet trade is regulated through the instrumentality of trade agreements, concessions and bargains. In those countries which have extended to it diplomatic recognition or have entered into trade agreements, the Soviet Government maintains trade missions or delegations of the Commissariat of Foreign Trade. In the case of England and Germany these delegations have branches in the principal ports, permanent sample museums and banks. Through these institutions the entire volume of Russian trade is handled.

"The present Rusisan trade with the United States is carried on, not through official Soviet delegations, but through ostensibly private corporations organized under American laws. A number of such corporations have been organized and are now functioning in New York. There are three foreign concerns, among them one American corporation, enjoying special trading concessions that grant to them for a specified period a certain amount of independence from the Commissariat of Foreign Trade in the import and export goods. They are subject, however, to existing embargoes and restrictions, to the issue of licenses for each individual shipment, and to certain fixed limits imposed on the total value of imports into Russia. The basis of the contract is an equal division of profits with the Soviet Government.

"MIXED COMPANIES" DEFINED

"Besides these private concerns several so-called 'mixed companies' operate in Russia on the basis of the decree of March 13, 1922. These consist of Soviet Government institutions on one side and private foreign interests on the other, exploiting natural resources of Russia, chiefly timber, with the controlling interest always held by the Soviet Government. These industrial enterprises do not enter the scope of this survey. The operation of all such agreements is that the foreign company shall export goods through the Russian company and thereby participate in the profits on sales made in Russia, or, on the contrary, that the foreign company, with some of its personnel attached to the Russian company, shall undertake the purchase of raw materials which the Russian company in question has been granted a right to export, and shall then participate in the profits accrued from sales made in foreign countries.

"All the other concerns engaged in Russian trade represent the agencies of one or another of the Soviet State institutions. While outwardly and to all intents and purposes these institutions function as independent or private corporations, buying and selling goods along customary lines, it must be understood, in order to get a clear-cut idea of the extent of their financial responsibility and the standing of their executive officers, that these concerns are owned and controlled absolutely by the Soiet Government; the directors are not elected, as is the established custom in American business practice, but are appointed by the Soviet Government, and the executive officers likewise are appointed and dismissed by the authorities of various Soviet Commissariats."

MR. T. SHIRANI DEFINITELY MADE N.Y.K. PRESIDENT

Appointment Is Officially Confirmed At Meeting Of Advisers

Despite opposition among advisers of the Company, Mr. T. Shirani, head of the Yawata Imperial Iron Works, on October 22 was officially appointed president of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha to succeed Mr. Y. Ito, whose resignation followed the recent dissension among the concern's land force which threatened to disrupt its worldwide shipping interests.

Baron Go opposed Mr. Shirani's appointment strongly, declaring a man more versed in financial affairs was needed to direct the shipping concern through its present troubled economic situation However, the selection was definitely made at a meeting of directors yesterday. The gathering was attended by Viscount Shibusawa and Baron Iwasaki, also advisers to the company, who favored Mr Shirani's appointment

RECOMMENDED BY ITO

Mr. Shirani was first recommended by Mr. Ito, and has had the support of Viscount Shibusaw since it was first suggested he be given the post. He indicated his intention to accept it, were it finally offered him, last week, and told Viscount Shibusawa he would take the position.

With his appointment, it is declared a radical change in the N.Y.K. administrative policy will result. The board of directors is to be increased from five to nine members, and the directorate is to have more authority in actively handling the company's affairs.

WIDER REPRESENTATION

In the selection of the additional board members, it is understood the policy to be followed will be one looking to a more diversified representation on the N.Y.K. directorate. It is said that the Mitsubishi and Mitsui interests, interests, for example, may have a representative on the N.Y.K. board of directors, and that these men may aid in assisting the shipping firm to safely navigate its present financial crisis.

It is reported that Mr. Shin'ar Ohashi may represent the Mitsui interests and Mr. Kusuye Kimura the Mitsubishi concern. As far as the other members are concerned, they are to be chosen by Baron Go and Baron Iwasaki, with the assistance of Mr. Ohashi and Mr. Kimura. All are to co-operate with the new president to help him solve the knotty problems which will face the incoming executive.

SAN FRANCISCO NOW HAS DUTY FREE WAREHOUSE

News was received by the local office of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company to the effect that a Bonded Customs Warehouse has been established in San Francisco for the clearing, sorting, repacking and re-shipment of import goods to foreign ports without making entry or payment of duty on these consignments.

Heretofore on dutiable import shipments arriving at San Francisco, it was necessary to make entry and pay duty on same if any repacking or sorting or forwarding or partial shipments was desired. This has now been changed and importers can now place their shipments in this bonded warehouse without making entry and payment of duty and if desired, they can take portions of the shipments or split up the shipment anyway they desire, re-exporting part in bond and without entry or payment of duty and paying duty only on such portion as may be consumed in the United States.

This is the only duty free warehouse on the Pacific Coast and is bound to give San Francisco a tremendous advantage on import cargo from the Orient as many importers have already signified their intention of making use of the new facilities, which have the effect of making San Francisco a free port so far as re-exported goods are concerned.

Predict Revival Of Trade In Europe

Daniel Guggenheim Asserts Germany Will Buy A Lot Of Copper

New York, Sept. 24.—Optimistic forecasts regarding the future of industry in Europe, particularly Germany, were made by Daniel Guggenheim of Guggenheim Brothers, Joseph Clendennin, director of copper sales for Guggenheim Brothers, and Hubert T. Parson, President of F. W. Woolworth and Co., who returned from abroad yesterday.

Mr. Guggenheim said that Germany would buy "a great deal of copper as soon as the loan goes through," but not until money gets cheap. "Money will not get cheap in Germany until expatriated capital returns," he said. "I expect expatriated capital to begin to return to Germany shortly after this loan goes through, and this will stimulate large copper buying."

Russia, Mr. Guggenheim said, will be developed electrically through German manufacture, "because Germany is in a better position to supply finished copper products than any other nation in the world today." Russia, he said, has had no electrical development and there is room for tremendous work there.

"Germany also will get the business of the world if she wants it," Mr. Guggenheim declared. "She won't have any such thing as labor unions over there and her workmen will work for ten to twelve hours a day."

Mr. Clendennin said that every country, with the exception of Germany, was using copper in increased quantities. Germany would get its stride just as soon as her cash and credit position was restored, he said. He asserted that German industries were well equipped for re-entering the world's markets.

Mr. Parson, who had been away since July, said the stage was all set in Europe for better conditions, which would be reflected in this country. In England, he said, the Woolworth Company has 165 stores, but the company is not contemplating establishing any more there until conditions are more stabilised. His company has three ware-houses and has another one under construction in Germany for the storing of toys, which at present, he said, are being shipped to this country at the rate of 1,000 cases a month. He explained that the stores used principally American merchandise and that last year 95 percent. of the Woolworth products were of domestic manufacture. He found conditions in Germany very good, with large wheat and potato crops expected.

While in Germany Mr. Parson said he was approached by Germans for loans, the complaint being that they had to pay 4 percent monthly interest. Regarding business generally, Mr. Parson said that indications pointed to "very bright things in America this Fall."

JAPAN DECIDES ON POLICY OF FIRE INSURANCE

Payment Of Premiums To Be Handled By Special Committee

The fundamental policy concerning the payment of fire insurance premiums in Tokio, the revision of which has been a long-pending question, has finally been decided by a committee composed of 16 members from the Tokio Fire Insurance Society and foreign fire insurance interests. The prevailing charges were adopted and the matter will be submitted to a general meeting which will be held about the end of this month for approval.

Strict secrecy has been maintained concerning the details of the decision reached at the first committee meeting about fire insurance premiums.

MIGHT INCREASE 10 PERCENT

First opinion was held that a 10 percent increase would be made over the present rates, which were stipulated in February, 1923, the object being to give relief to the present depressed business situation confronting the majority of insurance companies. Representatives of Kwanshi insurance firms having branches in Tokio supported this opinion. After serious discussions at frequent committee meetings it was finally decided to keep the present rates, in view of the fact that a sudden increase of rates might cause trouble among policyholders and the public in general. Though more or less of a change will be made in the premiums, it will not affect the general situation, it is said.

It was also decided to punish the alleged violation of stipulation and number of agencies to be limited, so as not to cause competition among insurance firms. In order to attain this object each insurance company shall deposit Y5,000 with the Society as a guarantee and, if it cuts the stipulated rates, the deposits are to be confiscated by the society. If the society finds the action of any company harmful to the general interest of the community it will expel that firm from the society and secret service men will be dispatched to local districts for investigation of the conduct of agents, it was also decided.

TOKIO PREMIUM RATES

The prevailing fire insurance premiums enforced in Tokio per Y1,000 insured are as follows:

Districts	Construction of House
	A	B	C	D
	Y	Y	Y	Y

The Case Of Manchuria—Is This Neutrality?

WE reprinted yesterday on this page of The China Press an editorial from the New York Journal of Commerce which should provide subject for serious consideration on the part of thinking Chinese and foreigners and especially Americans residing in this part of the world. The editorial was headed, "Our Oriental Problem," and in the course of the discussion the editor of this usually well-informed American paper among other things said—

"Due to the undertakings entered into at the Washington Conference the United States is in no position to do anything in China that Japan does not approve or that would bring us into a conflict with that nation. Thus there bids fair to develop a situation that will not only destroy much of the work accomplished at the Washington Conference, so far as relates to the Orient but that will leave us in a rather unenviable position, able to protect our citizens and interests only by the grace of Japan. Diplomacy even when successful is of little value if represented by a series of isolated occurrences. It must be a continuous process directed toward the accomplishment of a definite object. Our own object has been supposed to be liberation of China, the maintenance of peace in the Orient and the recognition of an "open door" policy there. To that end we have given up our fortification of the Philippines, our naval power in the Pacific and a good many other less tangible advantages. This was well if our Government at Washington had had the skill and persistence to adhere to the pursuit of its objects and to make them real. Unfortunately there has been little indication of such skill or ability, and the result is the rather undignified and unsatisfactory posture into which we are being forced."

The foregoing editorial comment from the Journal of Commerce is of particular interest in view of the recent Japanese note to the Chinese factions regarding the carrying of the war into Manchuria. The Japanese note which was handed simultaneously to the Minister of Foreign Affairs in Peking and to General Chang Tso-lin in Mukden started out by reiterating Japan's policy of non-interference in the present Chinese civil war and stating that "Japan's sole desire has always been to cultivate relations of friendship and neighborliness with the Chinese people." Then after these familiar commonplace remarks the note continued,

"It must however be pointed out that in Manchuria and Mongolia there are several hundred thousand Japanese subjects and that Japan's investments and enterprises in those regions are very extensive. Moreover the peace and happiness of the Japanese Empire itself depends in no small measure on the maintenance of tranquility and order in those districts. The Imperial Government hereby invites the serious attention of the belligerent parties to the above-mentioned obvious fact from motives which are entirely alien to all idea of interference in the domestic strife of China, and makes it clear that it attaches the greatest importance to these vital rights and interests being fully respected and preserved."

By handing this note simultaneously to the officials of the Mukden Government and to the Peking Government, in other words to both sides of the conflict in the North, there was a presumption of "neutrality" or fairness to both sides of the struggle, but that the action of the Japanese Government has created an impression in many circles foreign as well as Chinese, that Japan's neutrality in respect to the present China war only applies to fighting in parts of China outside of Manchuria, but when it comes to a matter of carrying the war into Manchuria in which region Japan has extensive interests, then it becomes a matter of special concern of the Japanese Government.

The Weekly Chronicle, independent British paper published at Kobe, in its issue of October 23 calls attention to this important point and makes the query whether the Japanese note was sent to China after consultation with the United States and Great Britain. Says the Chronicle,

"It is hardly to be supposed that there was consultation between the Powers before the forwarding of the note, though it is quite likely that Japan notified the others after she had sent it. The Note itself, its critics and even its supporters complain, is mild and ambiguous and it contains little for any Power to find fault with. Yet it is not without importance as a diplomatic event." Then after commenting on the practice in recent years of dealing with China collectively, the Chronicle continues. "When, however, Japan sends a Note concerned with Manchuria and Mongolia, it is a different matter. It indicates independence of the other Powers, and readiness for action, and it also asserts the principle of a sphere of influence. . . . . In any case a definite step has been made at completing the separation of Manchuria and Mongolia from China and definitely placing them under Japan's protection. The note was very adroitly placed."

It is of course too early to gauge the effects of these various diplomatic moves and counter-moves in the international political sphere while the major attention is concentrated upon the more interesting Chinese internal political stage, but that certain interests are watching the situation closely and are not letting the opportunity pass for improving positions, goes without saying.

M. Zinovieff's Letter

THERE is a number of outstanding facts with regard to the letter alleged to have been sent by M. Zinovieff to the Communists in England which will require explanation all round, and it will be interesting to see what is done with reference thereto. On the evidence it would appear that the British Government was in possession of the contents of the letter for some considerable time—somewhere about a month—and that it was not until copies came into the hands of Mr. Macdonald's political opponents, and were due for publication in the English newspapers that the Government thought fit to take any steps in the matter, either with regard to publishing the same itself, or as to protesting to the Russian Government. The Russian reply to the effect that the letter is an impudent forgery, and this is echoed by the Labor Headquarters who suggest that the circumstances surrounding the letter are to be regarded with the deepest suspicion. The Labor Government, however, did not think it was a forgery, for if they did their Note of protest was not only unnecessary but absurd, and their association with the extremists is, it is suggested, sufficiently close for them to form a very good idea as to the genuineness of the communication in question.

As to how copies of the letter came into the hands of the Conservative leaders, and the press, is a question which does not affect the substantial issue. The public is not likely to be concerned as to how a crime is discovered and the perpetrators brought to justice, so long as it is done, and in this instance the manner of the revelation is not nearly so important as the disclosure itself. It was imperative, if the Russian Communists were taking an active interest in British politics that the fact should be disclosed at the earliest possible moment. Mr. Macdonald does not appear to have done this, but to have waited until his hand was forced by others. Had he not done this, but immediately published the letter it is conceivable that very little blame would have attached either to him or his ministry, but this suppression of a month was bad and it will be surprising if he is able to discount the bad effect it will have upon the chances of his party at the polls today.

Apart from the question of the general election, there are even greater issues involved. One of the terms of the Anglo-Russian treaty was to the effect that communistic propaganda should be discontinued in British possessions. That was agreed to by the Soviet Delegation, though it would now appear that they did so with their tongues in their cheeks. They knew that propaganda would not be stopped, and they were also aware that if any complaint were made they would be able to allege that the work was not their work, but that of Communist International. The lesson to be drawn from this is that the Soviet standard of international morality is absolutely beneath contempt, and that the Anglo-Russian Treaty instead of being the diplomatic success as at first alleged, is nothing but an egregious failure. The statement that the letter in question is a forgery is the only possible defence in the circumstances and is to be reckoned as such, but we do not suppose this form of denial will carry with it much conviction.

The effect of this incident upon the British elections does not seem difficult to foretell, no matter how hazardous prophecy may be in such matters. Whatever losses the Labor Party may sustain as a result will be divided between the Liberal and Conservative groups, but it is to be doubted whether it will cause the loss of many Labor seats, if any at all. The main damage in this direction is to be expected in the unofficial arrangement whereby three-cornered elections are dispensed with, where in earlier elections Labor gained the day by reason of the division of opposition votes. At the same time it would seem clear that the Anglo-Russian Treaty, no matter what the outcome of the election may be, will be as dead as the proverbial door nail, for we doubt whether even the Labor Party, even if it were returned to power, would jeepardise its chances anew by endeavoring to obtain parliamentary ratification of a document which, whatever was thought of it before, can hardly be said, now, to be worth the paper it is written on.

Boxing And The Authorities

THE refusal of the Shanghai Municipal Council to grant a license to the Oriental Boxing Association for their contests this week, no specific reason being given for their action, brings up the question as to how far boxing contests should come under the control of the authorities.

The present system certainly appears to be unsatisfactory. Working excellently as a general thing, an affair like last week's brings out certain points which must be remedied. The first of these, of course, is the question of police protection. In this matter the problem is essentially the same as that of other assemblies where feeling may run high, and where police interference may be called for. Police can attend the bouts, in their official capacity, for action in case of emergency. True, these emergencies may come up only once a year, but there is absolutely no reason why a referee, umpiring the contest, whose decision is supposed to be final, should be publicly assaulted or threatened with assault by a heavyweight fighter who questions his decision, leaps into the ring, and attempts to interfere.

The usual system, in American cities and in other places, is to have a representative of the Chief of Police present at all boxing contests, in his official capacity. He is there not only to maintain order as at other assemblies, but is specifically empowered to stop a fight which in his judgment may result in a man being injured. Even though serious injury may not result, a fight may be stopped when one man or the other is no longer in a position to put up an adequate defence, and the affair ceases to be a sporting event.

Something of the kind is certainly required here. There is no more reason for permitting mob-law in Shanghai than elsewhere, and as was observed last week, it is not sufficient to have police officials present if they are not specifically empowered to interrupt proceedings, and apparently do not consider it their duty to interfere without having definite instructions.

It seems very necessary that a police officer, representing the Commissioner of Police in his official capacity, be empowered to attend fights to preserve order, and in extreme cases to stop fights when necessary. He must of course be a man of discretion and judgment, with some knowledge of boxing, and acceptable to the Association staging the fights. A step such as that proposed seems to be most advisable, in the interest of boxing as a sport in Shanghai. The present Association has staged some excellent contests, in very good surroundings, and the fight officials, referees and judges have been competent arbiters, absolutely disinterested as a general thing, and men of standing in the community. It is most unfortunate that the development attained by boxing here under the wing of the Association during the past year should be so rudely interrupted. The official authorisation of an S. M. P. officer to attend the fights, as official representative of the Commissioner of Police, is at least one logical way to prevent unpleasant scenes such as occurred last Thursday.

Another matter which may be broached is that of a Boxing Commission. There does not appear to be enough boxing here to justify the formation of such a Commission, which exists in most states where there is much boxing in America, which lays down the law for boxers and for boxing in general, and which is a responsible body. In a case like last Thursday's such a Commission, though it could not foresee what took place would certainly take steps for the widespread disqualification of those responsible. In case there were questions as to the advisability of licensing, such a Commission would be in a position to give reliable and responsible advice.

Their work, of course, is wider than this. Local rules for fighting, questions of titles, etc., come before them. There is hardly enough boxing in Shanghai, as has been stated, to justify the appointment of a permanent commission, but it would be very advisable to have some responsible parties, absolutely disinterested as regards the business end of the fights, recognised as a Commission, whose judgment could be depended upon when required.

In any case, the presence of a competent and responsible police official at these bouts seems an essential, if boxing is to continue in Shanghai at its present high level. Such action as the refusal of licenses by the Municipal Council may mean the transference of these contests to some place outside the Settlement, very possibly in less favorable surroundings, which would be a loss to the sport and to all persons interested in the sport in Shanghai. It is possible that Shanghai might be able to gain some wisdom on this subject by investigating conditions in the Philippine Islands where the "manly art" has been developed for several years.

Other Views Than Ours On The War In China

"A CHINESE PUZZLE UP TO DATE"

(Christian Science Monitor)

A generation ago knew a popular pastime called the Chinese Puzzle. Little wooden blocks, numbered from one to fifteen, fixed any way in the square, flat holder, were to be moved about till they read in numerical sequence. It was simplicity itself—till one worked down to the last line, where the chances were something like 12,009 to 1 that the Holmesian tradition of the total depravity of inanimate things would appear once more: 13-15-14 or 15-14-13 they would stand.

Today China again offers a puzzle, one magnified to this of thirty-five years ago quite in the ratio that the vast Asiatic state may be held to bear to that box once held in the enthusiast's troubled hand. The infinite complications of the problem, about which center most, if not all, the interests of the mighty Orient, have been described by travelers from the four quarters of the globe. Students of all shades of authority have written a very library on the subject—with only the last dozen years considered, too—since, in 1911, the revolution set a period to two and a half centuries of Manchu rule and opened the republican chapter. It is entirely probable that as much more white paper will be inked before history records an enduring answer to the riddle. And yet, in its essentials, the situation as it stands may be summed up at no great length. It so happened that in a recent issue of this paper three articles appeared which, taken together, held in a few sentences that which covered the ground with informing completeness.

The first of these, a review of a lately published book on current affairs in the land of Confucius, quoted Dr. Henry T. Hodgkin, who speaks ex-cathedra if any Occidental fully can, as saying:

"China is in a desperate case. Opium is being grown and sold openly in almost every section. Brigandage is rife. Public life is terribly corrupt. Militarism flourishes. Western industrialism threatens the very foundations of social well-being."

This second witness spoke at the Williamstown Institute of Politics, John van A. MacMurray, chief of the Division of Far Eastern Affairs of the American State Department, his testimony being:

"China's present position as a political entity hardly could be more disintegrated, her government hardly more corrupt. Yet those who know China and the Chinese, and realise the social progress and educational revival (amounting to a renaissance) taking place there, side by side with almost complete political chaos, cannot despair of the nation. Eventual emergence from the present difficulties will come, but whether within five years or five generations it is impossible to forecast."

To which John Dewey adds:

"Simply as an intellectual spectacle, a scene for study and surmise, for investigation and speculation, there is nothing in the world today—not Europe in the throes of reconstruction—that equals China. History records no parallel. Can an old, vast, peculiar, exclusive, self-sufficing civilisation be born again? Made over it must be or it cannot endure."

How can the numbered blocks be moved to bring the solution? Exactly how they are arranged at the moment it would be difficult to say. The sole assured fact is that they do not read 13-14-15. The Who—the How—the When of that correct position involves one of the vital matters of the world problem now being worked out in China.

Year Without A Summer

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

Mr. Herbert J. Browne prognosticates, on the basis of the newest meteorological science, a repetition of the memorable "year without a Summer" which upset our ancestors a hundred and eight years ago. This is how he puts it, in the "Scientific American":

"It is not prophecy, but a forecast based upon meteorological facts already in evidence, for those who can correctly interpret, that the year 1925 will be a severe one generally throughout the world, and that 1926-1927 may witness a return of 1816, the 'Year without a Summer.'"

He also affirms that it would not require a completely cold Summer to spell disaster, for "twenty-four hours of temperatures below freezing about June 10 and a similar period about July 10 would destroy the grain crops of the United States and Canada, as well as nearly every other growing thing."

The only other element needed to reproduce the weather of 1816, he thinks, is a violent volcanic eruption like that of Asama in 1783, Tomboro in 1815, or Krakatoa in 1883, or a series of lesser eruptions sufficient to reduce the earth's temperature some ten degrees Fahrenheit by filling the upper air with volcanic dust and thus cutting off a considerable share of the sunshine.

SUN IS TO BLAME

The source of all these general weather troubles—excluding the contribution made by volcanic dust—is, as I have often said, to be found in the fundamental fact that the sun is a variable star. The most practically important addition that could be made to human knowledge would be the discovery of the law of the sun's variability. Upon that all the future depends, for all the worlds in the solar system. The sun's energy may be permanently declining. Such decline is a very slow process, measured by historic time, but it is certain to be marked by more or less extensive fluctuations of a temporary character. It is only within a few years past that any systematic study of the solar radiation has been made. And this study has already made it plain that such fluctuations actually occur, some being of very brief duration.

The best determined decline of solar energy is that which began in January, 1921, and still continues. This was preceded by an accession of energy above the normal, which lasted from 1917 to 1920, inclusive. As to what has happened to the sun in the past, before special attention began to be given to the subject, and before regular records of the weather were kept, we know nothing except indirectly from old annals in which anecdotes and fragmentary facts about extraordinary Winters and Summers were incidentally entered. The wonderful "year without a Summer" falls in this category. Its relation to the state of the sun can only be judged by calculating backward on the basis of the sun spot period. But that period is irregular in both intensity and length.

EFFECT OF ATMOSPHERE

Accordingly it may seem rather early yet to risk confident predictions of weather conditions, and of general temperature, on the strength of what we now know of the sun's fluctuations of energy. One thing which should be understood by all is that this is not so simple a matter as thrusting the hand out into the sunshine, as if into a warm bath, and saying: "Now the sun is hotter than on the average"—and later: "Now the sun has cooled."

Between the sun and the terrestrial surface, whereon we live there is the vast screen of the atmosphere, which interrupts, now more, now less, the passage of the solar radiation, and no investigation of the changes undergone by the latter can have any value unless it carefully takes into account the part played by the atmosphere, and this is a very complicated matter.

Then, too, as Mr. Browne has shown, the consequences of solar changes are not immediately felt. The broad, open oceans, covering 65 percent of the earth's surface, act as accumulators of heat, and distributors of it, and if the sun fails them, they in turn fail the continents. Thus the ultimate effects of a decline of solar energy are retarded. From this it is concluded that "the weather for 1925-26-27 has already been determined by the (low) solar constant of 1921-24."

DRESS

By Mary Marshall

An Entire New Wardrobe Is Needed for Present-day Mourning

Going into mourning as a means of showing your bereavement is getting to be something of a luxury. The question is not so much whether you approve of mourning as whether you can afford it.

To the well-bred American woman there is something preposterous about putting on black at all if it is not done consistently and completely. If you have ever lived in France you probably recall the slap-dash method with which mourning is sometimes donned by middle-class women there. One observer recently remarked that quite the most charming widow's bonnet and veil she had seen lately in Paris was worn with a brown sweater! It is no uncommon sight to see widows in deep and heavy crepe wearing light stockings. Simply, these women cannot afford to get everything new, but that does not prevent them from following the tradition of going into mourning.

This sort of thing is offensive to American taste. It isn't done. Going into mourning here usually means everything new, from shoes and stockings to hair ornaments and carrings.

Dull black kid slippers or pumps are the best selection, and with them nothing lighter than thin transparent black silk stockings. Any of the dull-ribbed fabrics of the present season are appropriate for frocks, with the dull crepes leading.

The sketch shows a frock of black georgette pleated down each side and left perfectly flat and straight at back and front. The hat is of black felt with a binding around the edge and a folded band or crape around the crown. The handbag is of black crape with grapes and a leaf for trimming, and the choker collar is of black fur with ends of crape crossed and drawn through a crepe ring. There is a ruching of crepe around the top of the collar. Black suede gloves of elbow length would be chosen.

Black felt hat bound with crape, handbag of crape with trimming of grapes, and collar of black fur with crape ends give smart finish to simple black silk crepe frock worn for mourning.

nament or other that looks attractive and that isn't too expensive.

A far better method is to look about in shop windows or millinery departments until you find a hat that you think attractive and that seems to you made of materials not too expensive. Then proceed to get the shape and the trimming as nearly like the original as possible.

There are all sorts of trimmings this season that are not very expensive. Wide ribbons neatly wired with wide flat wire and then turned or folded into large bows and loops are very smart. These are not difficult if you follow your model faithfully. Flowers made of suede leather are attractive and not difficult to make. Frequently a very attractive felt hat can be trimmed simply with one or two pompons in a not expensive manner.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

ONCE UPON A TIME

In the middle ages daughters of less important families were sent to the castles of famous lords to be educated. This was the equivalent of finishing school or a college course in those days. "All the long day," says Willystine Goodsell, "they sat in certain rooms of the castle, under the eye of the lady, learning how to spin and weave, to make clothing to embroider girdles and garments, sometimes with marvelous pictorial scenes. In the late afternoon or early evening they repaired to the quaint conventional gardens surrounding the castle, where they were joined by the pages and squires."

B.W.A. Speaker Tells Of Opportunities For Women

Miss Phyllis Ayrton was the speaker yesterday at the meeting of the Literary Department of the British Women's Association. The meeting was a record one, so far as attendance is concerned, for Miss Ayrton is a popular speaker and is well-known for her interesting talks, beautifully delivered.

The subject of the lecture was "Modern Opportunities of Women" and in dealing with this fascinating subject Miss Ayrton diplomatically avoided its controversial aspects, giving simply the history of the emancipation of women and the gradual development of their opportunities in the business and professional world.

With delicate irony she quoted some of the old-fashioned prejudices against women's participation in anything but the ordinary tasks of a sheltered household; then countered by giving statements of such well-known men as William Thompson who, in 1825, wrote "an appeal to one-half the human race, women, against the pretensions of the other half, men, to retain them in political and thence in civil and domestic slavery." Mill, who wrote the "Subjection of Women," Havelock Ellis and others.

"The commercial and industrial system and the general diffusion of education that has accompanied it, and which also has its roots in economic causes, has been the chief motive in revolutionising the status of women," Miss Aryton said.

MANY PROFESSIONS OPEN

It is a long cry now from the days when a girl who was unmarried at the age of 25 automatically went on the shelf or became a teacher, a governess or a nurse of sorts. Today the professions open to her are truly amazing in their scope and it remains only for women to take advantage of her opportunities. In England there is a great engineering works, managed and directed entirely by women; an Australian girl at present in England is working on the intricate problems connected with the building of the gigantic bridge across Sydney harbor; a woman, "Ma" Ferguson is, for the first time in American history, running for the office of governor of a state; another woman, in England, is up for the post of cabinet minister.

In short story writing women are competing with men, three to one; Selma Lagerloff shines as the first woman to be awarded the Nobel prize for literature.

Miss Ayrton made the interesting statement that modern education and freer clothing are responsible for the change in the status of women. A noted authority on health recently declared, she said, that the tremendous improvement in the physical health of women is due entirely to the free, loose clothing they wear and to the physical exercise which they take as a regular thing.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO CLUBS

This new cult of health is responsible for throwing open to women the professions of public health service, physical training and a variety of kindred and allied professions. Miss Ayrton paid tribute to the women's clubs, particularly in America.

Miss Ayrton closed with a striking quotation from Edward Carpenter which is worthy of repeating: "The modern woman with her clubs, her debates, her politics, her freedom of action and costume, is forming a public opinion of her own, at an amazing rate."
